ACOEM SPECIAL INTEREST SECTIONS

Membership in special interest sections provides meaningful networking opportunities for OEM professionals with shared interests in specialized areas of OEM. Tools for members and position papers of the College are often developed by the sections. Ongoing discussion via listservs, websites, and teleconferences provide section members the opportunity to remain up to date on issues relevant to their area of interest. Check www.acoem.org/sections.aspx for information on the activities of each section.

Membership in the Residents & Recent Graduates Section is included with your free medical student membership!

ACOEM COMPONENT SOCIETIES

ACOEM component societies are an important benefit of membership. Local component societies provide opportunities for leadership, education, discussion of local issues, networking, and professional development referrals. Medical Student members are invited to participate in their local component society at no additional cost.
